WORKING EXPERIENCE

School of Code Bootcamp Projects (March 2023/ June 2023)

A 16 weeks web developer Bootcamp based on weekly peer programming workshops.

Project 1: Mighty Mini Minds:

- Collaborated with a team of six on a five-week full-stack application aimed at helping children express their emotions through journaling.
- Focused on backend development using Node.js and Express while also contributing to frontend tasks with React, Vite, and Tailwind/CSS.
- The project included complex features like authentication and authorization, tackled by extensive research and problem-solving.
- Received positive feedback for our commitment and handling of the backend from scratch.

Project 2: Fun With Flags:

- Worked on a three-day frontend app with a team of three, creating a library of flags using React JavaScript, and CSS.
- Developed work tickets and coding rules to ensure effective teamwork and streamlined development.
- The project helped deepen understanding of API consumption and key React concepts such as useEffect and useReducer.

Project 3: Weather Unit Test App:

- Successfully completed a personal three-day project focused on creating a weather application with an added emphasis on implementing unit tests.
- Overcame challenges of learning React Testing Library from scratch.
- Enhancing skills in unit testing and solidifying understanding of React.

Head Waiter, Harrods (February 2022 - March 2023):

- Delivering top-notch customer service in a high-end environment. Regular duties included managing, coordinating, and ensuring the efficiency of the waitstaff team.
- Developed and implemented a highly organized approach to meet customer requests and maintain high standards, ensuring exceptional customer satisfaction.
- Conducted daily briefings to ensure smooth operations and effective team coordination.
- Successfully built strong relationships with colleagues and customers, highlighting my interpersonal skills.
- The experience at a prestigious establishment like Harrods opened doors to numerous opportunities and further enhanced my professional growth.
